About Fierce Threads

At the heart of all we do is the knowledge that generally, handmade items are much more kind to the environment. With that in mind, we produce as much as possible without the need for machinery or industrial processes. All our labels are hand-stamped using rubber stamps created by other small Aussie businesses. I source all the fabrics personally and each project is individually hand cut and sewn by hand. We waste nothing.

Fierce Threads is located on the traditional lands of the Cammeraygal people of the Eora nation

We are grateful for the first custodians of this land, who managed it and cared for it across countless generations. We pay respect to the decision-makers, leaders and elders of the past and present and we invite them to walk with us as we honour the land through our actions.
